REMOVAL.

The Office of the DAILY and WEEKLY OREGONIAN has been removed to Carter's new brick block, corner of Front and Washington streets, up stairs Entrance on Washington street, first door from Front.

Paying its own Expenses

The dispatch published yesterday stated that "the Postoffice Department was, for the first time in fifteen years, meeting all its own expenditures." We are glad that Mr Blair can give so good an account of his stewardship, and we presume that he expects, by his proposed arrangement in regard to our Overland Mail, to be able to report next year that he is making a handsome profit by the reduction of present services, if he will only make contracts to transport the mail by ox teams, and require the service to be accomplished in thirty or fifty days, he can save a still greater sum, and thus boast of unprecedented economy.

We have never supposed that, in a nation like ours—stretching over a whole continent, and requiring mails to be carried where the population was sparse and widely scattered—it was expected that the Postoffice Department should be a self-supporting institution No body cares whether it is so, or not—and certainly no one wishes that a system should be put into operation merely for conveying the mails on the cheapest possible terms, without regard to speed, frequency, or public accommodation That sort of economy is unworthy a liberal Administration or of a great and enlightened nation in time either of peace or war, and we hope so far as this coast is concerned that it will not be persisted in or longer continued. Especially is there no excuse—if stated by the dispatch, the Department is gaining—for depriving us of facilities, experience demonstrates are consistent with economy We might submissively see common with the whole country, a curtailment of postal facilities, if the state or treasury demanded such a sacrifice, but the Government can afford to allow us a system, we insist that our representatives in Washington, if they care for our constituents, shall see to it, that we are not put to the miserable scheme now proposed for the satisfactory arrangements of

ing earnest prayer from General of the rebel army is published in papers, we copy it as a proof of the predicament in which the rebels and also to call attention to the from which it will be seen is hope that their brothers in North will come into political there will be an opportunity Rebels look to Northern defeat, and ex ecognition and in rant, however, till the tates elect Democratic may as well make up their minds war, as long as enough are left

[illegible] half the pitch—officers and privates—on Gon [illegible] are at present furnishing [illegible] They are wear [illegible] to pay but are spending [illegible] luxuries of the times of genius [illegible] country and taking pleasure drives [illegible] with thoughtless women)

[illegible] ers by the battle of Chattanooga [illegible] officers floating about through [illegible] they had been at their posts Gen. Bragg [illegible] to Nashville this day

[illegible] drive them to the army said the [illegible] Longstreet to me a few days ago 'They [illegible] three of absence' he added And the people [illegible] will bow at home, must drive them back. Not [illegible] will have any excuse but indisposition to do [illegible] of all no army those who are absent are just [illegible] blackness of the people to send the police of the [illegible] there are the pointed and truthful words of a [illegible] General who is always at his post

[illegible] much can now be seen themselves This is the most [illegible] to hurl in the progress of the struggle to bring this [illegible] close'

[illegible] very time at once repair to the army When [illegible] conscripts are coming let every man not actually [illegible] answer I am here If they will not do this [illegible] army can be destroyed He cannot live in the [illegible] of Georgia Don't criticise General Bragg [illegible] his work and be earnest in the discharge of [illegible] and no one will have cause to complain but all will have abundant cause to rejoice

Let the press, the people the old men and the ladies [illegible] by the lukewarmness, and shake them feel what is true—that absence is never disreputable Let nothing but absolute sickness excuse' No man can serve two masters and no man belonging to the army can discharge his duty in any other post This was General Longstreet's plain expression

I do believe if all absentees will at once return to the army General Bragg will be able to capture or destroy General Grant's army and when this is done the war cannot last for Lincoln's power will be broken

But if the absentees remain away, General Bragg with only forty per cent of his army present and sixty per cent in small squads cannot prevent Grant from getting a permanent foothold in Georgia and no man can measure the sacrifice that must accrue

General Lee's army is weakened almost as much from the same cause. If he shall lose a battle it will be because officers and privates are railroad passengers hotel guests and lady guards instead of being soldiers

Extreme men now govern the United States. They mean our subjugation and ruin We must fight as long as those men are in power When the people of the United States shall drive those men from power and repudiate their extreme measures and cease to invade and rob us there will be an honorable door of send for discussion But never before Until that door is opened by our enemies, let our people count on disaster as intolerable and regard every interest as protected only by a vigorous prosecution of the war Let every man of the army be in the field and let every man not of the army produce something to sustain those in camp

To fight the extreme men and keep our ears open to the reasonable and just men of the United States, is the only road to peace and honor

In the meantime, we have no cause to be discouraged. If Grant shall follow Bragg into the interior and the absentees will return promptly to duty we convert an apparent defeat into the greatest victory of the war The charm of the extreme men in the United States will then be broken and the door I speak of will be opened

MACON November 30 1863 B H HILL

MRS DOUGLAS—The widow of Senator Douglas is at present in Washington city, engaged by Secretary Chase, as clerk in the Treasury Department. She is seldom seen in public.

An Act of Justice

We have much regretted to observe in some of the papers in Oregon, insinuations and even charges against the loyalty of Col Steinberger, recently the commander of the Washington Territory Regiment The causes of these attacks we know not, and we cannot help believing that they have originated in misapprehension and idle conjecture. If they have obtained any credit from the fact that he has been relieved from military service they ought not to have done so, for the order from the office of the Adjutant General, published by us soon after it was received, expressly stated that the cause of his being mustered out of service was the reduction of the number of his regiment, and it certainly is very unfair to attribute it to any other than the reason assigned by the proper authority which was also a reason in conformity with army regulations Col Steinberger was very persevering in his efforts to raise the regiment of which he was appointed upon the zealous and urgent recommendations of Col Wallace the Delegate from the Territory, he has managed its affairs with great skill and fidelity, and so far as we know or can learn from good sources, he has been unhesitatingly faithful to the Government in every department of his duty We understand that he declares he is now and uniformly has been since he took his oath as an officer, a firm endorser and a cheerful supporter of the Administration in all the measures adopted by it for the suppression of the rebellion Such a man certainly does not deserve the insinuations which have been made against him, and it is but simple justice, that a soldier's honor—itself the richest treasure he can have or defend, a part of the wealth of the nation—should be shielded against unreasonable and false imputations As a proof that our information in this matter is not at fault, we are permitted to publish the following letter from General Alvord, whose sincere patriotism and thorough knowledge of the duty of a faithful and accomplished soldier, no man who knows him or his reputation, will for an instant question

HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF OREGON,
FORT VANCOUVER, W. T. Jan 29, 1864.

COLONEL.—I have to acknowledge the reception of your letter of this date, to which you say, 'Will you do me the favor to say to me what is your opinion of my standing as an officer while under your command and your estimate of my loyalty to the flag?'

It is a simple act of justice to say that I have always found you intelligent, prompt, zealous and efficient in the discharge of your duties and it is well known that the Fort and troops under your command have always been in a state of good order and discipline

I have always heard from you myself the most decided adhesion to the war policy of the Government, and have considered the attacks made upon your loyalty unfounded and very unjust.

I remain very respectfully, your obedient servant
BENJ ALVORD
Brig General U S V

ELECTIONEERING DEVICES.—A few weeks ago Senator Conness wrote a letter from Washington to one of the Washoe papers, earnestly calling on the people of Nevada Territory to elect Henry Edgerton to the United States Senate At that time there seemed no doubt but that Nevada would adopt the Constitution then before the people, and become a State A little later the signs began to change People seemed to fear that the State would fall under the control of too many such men as Edgerton, and so they have rejected the Constitution and decided to remain in a Territorial condition, notwithstanding that Senator Conness applied the following "spur" to them by telegraph on the very eve of election

WASHINGTON, January 16, 1864

J T GOODMAN—It is of the first consequence that Nevada shall adopt the Constitution Her votes are wanted here, and every loyal man impatiently awaits her application for admission She has the great honor of being the first to rebuke the pretense that the States are more parties as well as of having set National over State authority Let nothing hinder the adoption of our Constitution JOHN CONNESS

WASHINGTON January 16 1864

J T GOODMAN—We have inquired and there is no doubt the Administration would be glad to have Nevada a State They have no doubt it would be a loyal State and they understand its Constitution has provisions of supreme National importance. WM HUNT
JOHN CONNESS.

To counteract the effect of these dispatches, the opponents of the Constitution the day before the election posted all over Virginia City the following

TELEGRAPHIC.

Editor of Old Piute—My Dear Sir I understand that bogus dispatches are in circulation in your Territory purporting to come from Chase, Conness and Hunt to say there is nothing in it We don't care a d—n about it whether you become a State or not

Yours truly A LINCOLN

N B Bill Seward is with us

The result was the defeat of the Constitution, and probably the last dispatch had as much influence as the first—at least we hope so, for it was fully as sensible.

COMPETENCY OF JURORS.—A bill is before the California Legislature, which provides that because a man can and does read news papers which contain accounts of the transactions of daily occurrence, he shall not thereby be disqualified from sitting as a juror upon any case mentioned therein. It is well known that many escape from jury duty altogether because they have read what the papers publish in regard to cases, and have formed an opinion based upon the statement Of course the opinion is more or less indefinite and has no other foundation than such popular rumors as papers get hold of, but it is generally enough to enable the juror to say he has made up his judgment, and so the best and most intelligent citizens are driven as we think very improperly from the jury box, while the ignorant who never read anything and never know much, are allowed to fill their places

EXECUTIVE PARDON.—Alfred Rubery, one of the Chapman pirates, has been pardoned by the President for the reasons set forth in his proclamation, as follows

Whereas one Alfred Rubery was convicted on or about the 12th day of October, 1863, in the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of California of engaging in and giving aid and comfort to the existing rebellion against the Government of the United States and sentenced to imprisonment and to pay a fine of ten thousand dollars and whereas the said Alfred Rubery is of the immature age of twenty years, and of highly respectable parentage and whereas the said Alfred Rubery is a subject of Great Britain and his pardon is desired by John Bright of England

Now, therefore, be it known that I Abraham Lincoln President of the United States of America, divers and sundry other considerations me thereunto moving and especially as a public mark of the esteem held by the United States of America, for the character and steady friendship of the said John Bright do hereby grant a pardon to the said Alfred Rubery the same to begin and take effect on the 20th day of January, 1864 on condition that he leave the country within thirty days from and after that date In testimony whereof I have hereunto signed my name and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed

Done at the City of Washington this seventeenth day of December A D 1863 and of the Independence of the United States the eighty eighth ABRAHAM LINCOLN [L S]

Letter from Placerville

PLACERVILLE, BOISE CO IDAHO, January 4th 1864

EDITOR OREGONIAN

It is quite warm to day in this camp and the snow is descending cautiously, and is on the ground to the depth of 12 or 14 inches the miners are all in good spirits some of them from the fact that all the water is not frozen up and they are in work and others because it is snowing which will give them plenty of water in the spring, and then they can also work There are not many idle persons in this camp It will be the best in the basin when we have plenty of water

There has been another shooting affray in the Basin at Bummers Hall, near Centerville in which there was an offensive man killed The facts as near as I can learn are as follows Dr Terry has been smuggling claims, and had not smuggled all that lay close to his claims Some persons learning this fact went to prospect said ground Terry ordered them off They told him they thought the ground vacant and they would leave it for other men to settle, and took their tools and were leaving, telling the Doctor if the ground was not his they would work it After they had got some 10 or 15 steps from the ground he drew his pistol and shot one of the men dead The Doctor is now in jail at Bannock.

Doubtless the murderer of Miller I understand has been arrested near Fort Boise, where he was taken in a fair condition, and I understand both of his legs have been amputated

Pack trains continue to come in—freight is from 30 to 35 cents per pound Flour is worth from 32 to 34 cents per pound, bacon 75 to 80 butter, $1 to $1 25, and other things in proportion There is considerable improvement going on here lumber is worth $7 50 per 100 feet, nails 50 to 60 cents per pound

We are almost all boys here now, and the great amusement is riding down hill on hand sleds sound of which are constructed at an expense of $50 nicely painted and painted They run like race horses, making about one third of a mile in 40 seconds, on a gradual inclined plane. If you only could see them you would see from 15 to 30 sleds going down hill at one time, with from one to seven persons on each, and guided by the pedal extremities of the biped The Placerville Club have challenged the Centerville Sleigh Club for a race for a wager of not less than $100 and from that up to $2,500, which appeared in the Boise News When the race comes off your correspondent will be present to report the proceedings

We have two dancing clubs in our city, each of them giving a party once a week They are well attended and are pleasant re unions with good music and handsome ladies

But I will close with the following half quotation 'Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious by the anticipation of coming spring" Yours, &c J M S

BOISE ITEMS.—We find the following paragraphs in the Boise News of the 16th inst

Wall Street, from Main to the top of East hill is devoted almost entirely to sliding, sledding, coasting, running on snow shoes, tumbling heels over head in the snow &c If limbs or necks are not broken before the winter is over, it will be a wonder.

Justice Walker on Thursday last, issued thirteen warrants for the arrest of parties charged with a violation of the license laws

The weather has moderated materially since last week Snow has fallen pretty freely during the week and up to the time of going to press, is not 10 inches deep on the creeks except in drifts

A half fool fellow, named William Wills who was arrested at Bannock City, on the supposition that he was Wells, the celebrated California murderer, has been discharged from custody

In order to protect themselves against loss, the merchants of Bannock City have determined that in future they will only take gold dust at its actual value, and that in all cases it must be well cleaned The tariff of rates at which dust will be received, is as follows, Boise, $15 per ounce, Florence, $12, Dry Bee, $10

A party of miners are engaged in sinking a shaft on the lower end of Bannock bar, with a view of going down to the primary formation, or bed rock They have already gone some distance below the cement or false bed rock in which miners have heretofore worked, and as we understand are continuing to find various stratifications of sand gravel and clay, all containing more or less gold

At Centerville, a man named William Roberts was shot and killed by Dr Terry The murderer was held to bail in the sum of $5000 to answer the charge

New discoveries of quartz continue to be made almost daily in the vicinity of Bannock city

The citizens of Bannock offer a reward of $500 for the arrest of the scoundrel who attempted to fire Pickwick Hall on the night of the Masonic ball

THE REBEL WAR VESSELS.—The Secretary of the rebel navy, S R Mallory, in his report to the rebel Congress says

"In accordance with the order of the President, early in the present year I dispatched several agents to England and France, with orders to contract for eight iron clad vessels, suitable for ocean service, and calculated to resist the ordinary armament of the wooden vessels of the enemy These ships were to be provided with rams and designed expressly to break the blockade of such of the ports as were not blockaded by the iron clad Monitors of the enemy Five of these vessels were contracted for in England and three in France Due precautions were taken against contravening the laws of England in the construction and equipment of these vessels. Three have been completed, but owing to the unfriendly construction of her neutrality laws, the Government of England detained several war vessels at the mouth of the Mersey and prevented their departure from England Subsequently they were seized by the British Government. Another and larger vessel has since been completed but it is doubtful if she will be allowed to leave the shores of England, although it is believed the precautions taken are sufficient to exempt her from the fate of her consorts The vessels being constructed in France have been subjected to so many official visitations that I have forwarded instructions to cease operations upon them until the result of negotiations now pending shall permit our agents to resume work upon them In this connection it is proper for me to state that the great revulsion in popular sentiment, both in England and France, toward the Confederate Government, has rendered our efforts to obtain supplies from these countries almost abortive

NATIONAL CURRENCY.—The following is the result of the 10 o'clock Comet to day so far as heard from Virginia City 401 For Boise against Gold Hill for Boise City 85 for Gold Hill Weston City 15 for 278 against Fort Church 6 for Lemmon Canon 15 for Silver 3 net Total, 207 for 5609 against the Constitution

EASTERN NEWS.

The Richmond Enquirer of the 11th advises the public that general orders have been prepared at the Adjutant General's office, to be issued in a few days for the immediate conscription of all persons who ever have furnished substitutes and they will be put in camp of instruction within ten days

KNOXVILLE Jan 25—Maj Gen Foster has issued an order prohibiting the distillation of grain within the limits of the Department of Ohio

A special to the Herald dated Headquarters Western Virginia, says We have captured a rebel mail The secrets of the mail bag are curious and interesting and in one or two instances highly important. Almost all the letters contain remarks on the President's amnesty proclamation. Much suffering is anticipated in rebeldom Gen Lee is affected by the complaints of the soldiers, and the manner in which rebel officers both in private and public are spoken of all serve in very many respects to confirm the reports in circulation regarding the condition of the confederacy The weather continues mild but the roads are hardly in a passable condition for heavy trains and artillery Several prominent citizens and rebel officers one of them widely known as an ex foreign minister are negotiating to take the oath of allegiance to our Government and receive pardon

Brig Gen Getty has been assigned to duty as Chief of Artillery on Gen Meade's staff

A prize fight took place near Flushing, Long Island, between Young Dramgold and Joe Graham Forty-six rounds were fought lasting one hour and five minutes when Dramgold was obliged to succumb Graham who is a Canada pugilist, was also severely punished

The Herald says Private advices from well informed quarters state positively that the Schleswig Holstein question is about to be settled peacefully by agreement between the Great Powers in which Denmark has already promised to acquiesce and which will be imposed by Austria and Prussia, upon the lesser German states by force, if necessary

CAIRO Jan 25—Little Rock advices to the 16th says that the State Convention, which assembled on the 8th had about completed its labors A great portion of the State was represented The article prohibiting slavery was adopted with only one dissenting vote The Constitution is to be submitted to the people on the second Monday in March at which time the State officers and members of the Legislature are to be elected The action of the Convention is universally satisfactory to loyal men The qualifications of voters is that prescribed by the President's proclamation Loyal citizens say they will be able to poll 20 000 votes for the Constitution

CHICAGO Jan 26—A resolution was adopted instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the expediency of organizing a Department of Industry to embrace the Agricultural, the Colonization the Emigration the Freedman's, and the Mineral Lands Bureaus

CHICAGO, Jan 26—From late Southern papers we condense the following

The Atlanta Confederacy of the 20th says Our cavalry at Dean's Station are continually having heavy skirmishes with the enemy Four days ago, a squad of our men captured a lot of Yankee clothing and were in the act of draping themselves in Yankee property, when they were captured by the Yankees who, finding them in Yankee clothing, fell them out and shot them down A few days afterwards the 4th Alabama captured 15 or 20 Yankees and shot them in retaliation

The Atlanta Appeal of the 8th says In the late cavalry fight near Charlestown, Jones' our troops were stampeded. A large portion of our cavalry were previously dismounted from 150 to 200, was occasioned by the stampede—our men running over and killing and wounding each other in their fright

From the Tennessee and Georgia lines there is general intelligence that the enemy is opening communication by the way of Knoxville and Chattanooga by railroad—these two points being held as depots of supplies Large droves of cattle are said to be on the way from Lexington

In reference to the exchange of prisoners the Richmond Enquirer of the 15th says Butler is an outcast, and can never be recognized as entitled to the privileges accorded to all the takers in lawful warfare yet it may become a question whether the Government should not consult the feelings of the Confederate soldiers now lingering in Northern dungeons and take the earliest practicable opportunity of releasing them Treating with Butler should not relieve the pitiful wretch from the ban of outlawry pronounced against him.

The Petersburg (Va.) Express of the 14th says The Yankees are concentrating a large force at Portsmouth and there is now there about 1 600 negro infantry besides a battalion of mounted men It is supposed that a raid towards the Black water is contemplated.

An editorial in the Montgomery Mail says The debates and proceedings of Congress furnish much occasion for painful solicitude. They evince a party, rather than cool grave deliberations becoming such a body, in its anxiety to restore the currency and fill the army Danger is imminent that Congress will bankrupt the country and overthrow the very frame work of society The reported proposition of the Special Committee on Finance to tax the present value of the Confederacy to the amount of $700 000 000 should be omitted, and "An Act to sell at public auction the real estate of the Confederacy to the people who have accumulated fortunes in speculation" while the bill reported by the Military Committee might be justly entitled "An Act to establish an irresponsible despotism at Richmond and let the whole country stagnate, including the army The sounds from the Capitol grate harshly on the ears of the patriot The speeches lately made in Congress smack of the harangues of Robespierre, Danton and Marat"

The Richmond Enquirer, speaking of the announcement of the reenlistment of so many Federal troops for the war says The action of the enemy in this matter is important to us The preparation of their organization, shows that they intend to move forward at the earliest practicable moment in spring We shall need every energy of national defense for the spring campaign. Richmond will, in all probability be approached from the Rappahannock, as well as from the Blackwater and Northern Georgia. The fate of Atlanta, and in North Carolina, that of Wilmington—all must be decided in spring.

The Raleigh Journal says Lincoln's gold is being freely used in North Carolina to betray the Southern people into the hands of the Yankees and it suspects that prominent persons and news papers are engaged in the work

NEW YORK, Jan 26—The New Orleans Era gives the statement of a Union refugee just from Mississippi, who says that fully one half of the population of that State left at home are strongly Union and the women are especially bitter against Jeff Davis Hundreds of people were in the woods to escape the Conscription

The Era has intelligence from Texas through a preacher who resided at Port Lavaca, that there was an overwhelming Union sentiment in Western Texas

WASHINGTON Jan 21—A late Richmond Whig says If Wilmington is taken, Charleston falls by an attack in the rear

The rebels seem greatly disappointed at the reenlistment of so many of our men, and confess that the hope that the Federal Government would be left without men is a fallacy

The Whig speaks despondingly of their fast failing railway system, which hitherto held the rebel states together, and had been their main advantage in military operations and also acknowledges the impossibility of repairing the roads and replacing the rolling stock

Whisky speculators are making prodigious efforts to obtain a reversal of the decision of the House to tax on all the whiskey on hand

5 20 loan passed yesterday, all having been subscribed for

BALTIMORE Jan 21—A late Richmond Examiner claims that Longstreet's position is the most advantageous in the theatre of the war It flanks Thomas's army threatens the enemy's communications through Virginia and Nashville and becomes within 30 miles of Cumberland Gap on the Tennessee and Virginia road, which will be completed to Longstreet's headquarters within three weeks So that thus, in case of emergency, he can bring the army of Tennessee within supporting distance of Richmond. In short, a controlling position between Lee and Johnston, and at the same time close enough to Kentucky for the easy invasion of that State

The enemy are making great preparations, buying mercenaries for the fight as soon buy sheep for the shambles spending money with reckless profusion that contrasts strangely with their national penury They will commence the campaign with many advantages of position which they did not have at the beginning of 1864 They will begin at Charleston and Vicksburg extend to Nashville and Memphis

News from Newbern the same date, says The wholesale conscription law is creating great consternation and excitement in the western portion of the State where preparations are being made to resist it Meetings are held at which the Southern Confederacy is openly repudiated, and unswerving allegiance to the Union

The Raleigh (N C) Standard editorially says If civil law is to be trampled under foot by the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and any and every able bodied man between the age of 18 and 45 is placed in the army, and the rights of the State are to be swept away, the people of North Carolina will take their affairs into their own hands, and proceed in convention bescabbed, to withdraw their Charters and privileges They will not submit to the destruction of their personal and civil rights in this manner. A vast majority of our people are as devoted as ever to the Union and the Constitution and resist the threatened encroachments in their liberties by the Congress at Richmond and we warn the members of that body not to kindle a flame which no effort can extinguish If Congress pass these measures the people will rise in their might and assert their sovereignty, at once to the officers who shall attempt to turn the arms of Confederate soldiers against the people of the State North Carolina will not form a State of either the Congress at Richmond or Washington She is the key stone of the Confederate Arch If that stone is shaken all will fall and be a ruin

The Newbern (N C) Progress, of the 19th, on the coming campaign, says The year lowers gloomily we cannot contemplate the next as a fourth campaign of the present war without solicitude To the resistant there appears cause of grave anxiety while even heroism itself sees from the fog of war and crash of the struggle is opposite, and we must prepare for a tremendous shock

Richmond Sentinel sees alarming signs of trouble in North Carolina Speaking of the papers of that State, it says The Register at Raleigh barely fail to publish every gloomy article and intemperate accusation against the Government which appear anywhere Their editorials include the same elements as the selections, and contain frequent denunciations for bringing on wars and for no cause, what ever they indulge in careless accusations that North Carolina is not fairly treated Coupled with these almost daily jeremiads over the horrors of the war, and the gloomy future of our affairs

ST PAUL (Minn), Jan 22—Considerable indignation is felt throughout Minnesota at the course pursued by the British authorities in furnishing the Sioux Indians ammunition and sending them back upon their soil It is stated that Gov Dallas gave each Indian one pound of powder and lead in proportion

European Intelligence

LONDON January 7—The telegrams from Germany are less unfavorable and reports had gained currency to the effect that proposals for a conference had been agreed to by France and England, to the effect that the question should be settled by the German Powers themselves

The Paris supplies as of the intimate position of the Emperor of France and is of opinion that such a line of conduct is at this time much to the duty of France to confine themselves to preaching up the merits of peace and not the readiest way to obtain it would be better if France were to employ her whole influence in endeavors to check the hostile positions which are urging Germany to a war which must be fatal long sweep into its order widening vortex every power of the European continent

The London Times says that until the views of existing English policy and for the protection of British interests it was not unlikely that the Channel fleet had just been or would be augmented so as to show itself in German waters It was owing to British counsels that the Danes were abandoned by their allies in positions during the greater part of the country which is open to dispute, but as there is great difference between sympathy and interference England was bound to weigh well the consequences of any act which would make war To this reluctance of the Western Powers therefore the continued duration must be committed and Paris attempt to obtain no influence any step that Lancaster might take to preserve the honor and dignity of the nation The Times called the commencement of the campaign in Schleswig Holstein almost certain within a brief space

QUITE A SMASH.—As the steamship Oregon came up to her dock Sunday night she had on a little more steam than was calculated to let her up easy, and after raking down several piles, with her anchors, and playing smash generally, pitched into the barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg, staving quite a hole into her, carrying works, breaking all her fastenings and starting her up stream. At the time of the occurrence Capt. Wiggin and his crew were ashore, not thinking of danger, but the collision broke their peaceful rest very suddenly, and bounding out upon deck, did not fully realize whether they were at sea or in port for some time. They let go anchor, however, and after understanding the "situation" again made fast. The cause of the accident was, that the engines of the Oregon did not work right, and could not be reversed. The damage done to the barkentine was considerable, there being a large sized hole stove through to her rudder-trunk. The steamship received no particular damage beyond the breaking-in of her cut water. The delay for repairs will be nothing.

THE THEATRE.—The bare announcement that Mrs. Julia Dean Hayne was again to appear at the Willamette Theatre was almost enough to secure a full house, but when it was known that she would be supported, by Miss Goodrich, Mr. Waldron and the Star Company, it was quite enough, and the Theatre was crowded. Mrs. Hayne fully sustained her previous reputation, and was deservedly received by her appreciating friends. Miss Goodrich made a captivating debut, and, for her first Portland audience has won many hearts in her favor. We have no space this evening for comments upon the acts, except to say, every part was well rendered. The actors are deserving of patronage, and we hope our citizens will show their appreciation in a right liberal manner. We all know how dull it is here without a Theatre, now let us retain it.

LAUGHABLE BLUNDERS.—The telegraph often causes the printer to make a laughable mistake, after it is understood. About two years ago, when Col. Willis A. Gorman was a candidate for Brigadier General, his friends, who did not know it, until due course of time, because the telegraph made it read: "Willis a German." Recently, in our dispatches from Vicksburg, it said: speaking of new Generals for the army of the Potomac: "Gen. Sedgwick will command the second corps, and Gen. Neef of the Potomac the third." That compositor come very near being right—it should have been corps instead of the Potomac army." Some armed ruffians made an attack on the monkey;" nobody here knew a man in that place, but we afterwards learned it was "Hickman, Ky."

CROSS.—Yesterday afternoon as the steamboat was leaving the opposite shore, however, on one of its "regular" trips, came down to the water and plunged into it, evidently bent on crossing at all events. The boat kept on in its right course and the horse drifted down considerably, a wide distance between them. As soon as the boat landed, a skiff was sent to the horse, which, when taken out near the wharf, soon died.

VANCOUVER.—The steamer Express takes the place of the Vancouver yesterday, for the Fort with a full cargo of government supplies. She took from the river the Oregon a Company of soldiers belonging to the 9th Infantry, who, by this little of tactics were deprived of the privilege of setting foot in Portland. Captain Turnbull will resume regular business to-day with the Vancouver.

"RE-PACKING."—Goods for this market are packed, when they arrive they are unpacked. In our trade with the upper country they are packed, for better convenience in getting them into the mountain districts, as they are again packed after leaving here, this time on the backs of mules. A press for the business of "re-packing" is soon to be at work in this city.

THE NEW COURT HOUSE.—The county commissioners met yesterday to examine the plans and specifications for the new Court House, but no business was transacted, and they adjourned to meet again some time soon. The plans are on file at the office of the County Clerk, where they may be seen by any who wish to look at them.

WOLDEN'S WORM.—A persevering chap recently conceived a brilliant idea for drying the plastering on a new wall in this city, by spreading sand on the floor to the depth of an inch or two, and building a fire upon it. He found it didn't work, however, as it would scorch through.

DEPARTURE OF THE OREGON.—The steamship Oregon is advertised to leave at 4 o'clock P. M. to-day. The Julia will take a part of her cargo as far as the mouth of the Willamette, at the expense of the shippers. This is contribution No. 1 from Portland, to the support of that elegant Bar.

TREASURE AND EXPRESS.—Mr. Holland had about as much as he could well manage yesterday, of express matter and treasure. Over four thousand letters came in that department, being by far the largest letter express ever received from the upper country. The amount of treasure was about four hundred pounds.

COUNTY COURT.—The County Court for this County, Judge Marquam presiding, met at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and adjourned to meet to-day at the same hour.

RIVER ITEMS.—The new steamer Fort Wayne, Capt. Thayer, will leave for the Cowlitz river this morning.

The Hunt yesterday carried away forty head of horses and mules, and seventy-three passengers. Returning, brought fifty passengers. Communication was uninterrupted through to Walla Walla.

The Senator carried 36 passengers and ten tons of freight, to Oregon City yesterday. Returning, brought few passengers and 100 tons freight.

The Rival will leave Couch's wharf to-day at 2 o'clock for Oregon City, and until further notice will make regular trips.

The Julia will soon commence running to the Cascades, in the service of the O. S. N. Co. as a stock boat.

WE have not the space to call attention to each particular new advertisement but will recommend a glance at them all.

"IT CAN'T BE, POSSIBLY!"—"But I assure you it is the fact!" were remarks that attracted our attention as we passed the windows of the GROVER & BAKER Sewing Machine Establishment a few days since, and were caused by the surprise of one and assurance of another of another of two ladies who were examining an elegantly embroidered "Red Riding Hood," which was exhibited as a specimen of the wonderful elegance of the Embroidery done by this admired Sewing Machine.

SANITARY FUND. RECEIPTS.—From Forest Grove, public collection, July 26th, taken by Rev. T. H. Pearne, com., $25 12, currency, $5.

From Lancaster Precinct Union Club, Linn Co., forwarded by John Sharp—in currency, J. S. B. Cranston, $25; Mrs. Cranston and H. E. Stratton, $5 each; J. K. Gray, $1; in coin, T. Dean, $5.50; H. Sharp, $2.50 each; J. Beatty, $2; J. W. Newcomb, W. A. Potter, $1 each.

From Union League in Aiken Chapel neighborhood by James Davies, Treasurer, $44 50 in coin, $7 in currency.

Total in coin, $115 42; currency, $45; total $163 42.

A. HOLBROOK.

BUTTE PRECINCT UNION LEAGUE.—At a meeting of the Butte Precinct Union League of Washington County, held at Ames' Chapel on the 26th of January, available and patriotic address was delivered by Rev. Thomas H. Pearne. A collection for the humane and benevolent sanitary commission was taken up, with the following result:

W. P. Watson, $10; Peter Schell $3, (gold tender); Reward Rose, $5; Margaret Patton, $10; S. Cumsford $2 50; James McKay, 2 50; J. H. Whitmore, $2 50; Porfirio Gault, $2; Jordan Gerolomon, $2; Elizabeth Tucker $1 50; J. B. Kellogg, Thos. Denny, W. Tompkins, Wm. Robinson, Thomas Tucker, L. Ross, Thos. Scott, Wm. Patton, John D. Richardson, $1 each; Thos. Humphrey and E. Swan $1 each; legal tender; John A. Patton, John Winkler, M. M. Mitchell, Jerod Mitchell, Peter McKay, James Wells, 50 cents each; Orville Tucker, Miles Davis, Wilson Tigard, A. J. Tigard, 25 cents each; Eli McKay 20 cents; Fremont D. Gault 10 cents. Coin $44 50; currency $7; total $51 50.

A Card.—The Ladies of the Vancouver Sanitary Aid Society beg to acknowledge the receipt of, and to tender their thanks for the sum of $75, legal tender, from the ladies of Fort Vancouver, being the proceeds of a Ball given by them to promote the objects of the Society.

MRS. ANNIE L. COVINGTON,
Secretary of the Ladies' Sanitary Aid Society.

A Western Hotel.

BY THE COLONEL.

Those who are accustomed only to the present day traveling through the length and breadth of the land, where they are whipped about by cars or steamboats in less time than it takes to stay at home, and arrive, when their day's journey is done, at a palace, where the most frivolous wish of their hearts can be instantly satisfied, can hardly realize the style of traveling through the extreme West of thirty years ago, and the hotels[?] accommodation of the same period.

About that number of years ago necessity or, in other words, business, took me through the southern counties of Illinois. My experience in the newly settled parts of the different States was not small, but I was obliged to confess that southern Illinois showed up about as rough a hand as I had seen held anywhere. A man traveling with what the natives were pleased to term "store clothes" on, stood but little chance unless he was disposed to set aside all the ordinary amenities and necessities of life, and "rough it," both physically and mentally, with those he met. They were fearfully exercised lest he should "put on airs," and repudiated, in advance, any such attempt. They had no dread of anything human, but a thorough detestation of a surveyor, and a full determination to exterminate anything in the shape of a land speculator off the face of the earth. In a few words, any one coming with the savor of the city about him, had a hard time on his travels, unless he chose to lay aside every trace of his refinement and come straight down to the backwoods standard of good fellowship.

This was exactly the state of things when one day late in the autumn, I made my way through an apology for a road in that same southern Illinois. The day had been showery and cold until about three o'clock, when it fairly set in for a freezing, drenching rain. I saw that it would be impossible for me to gain the town I had set forth to reach, and the next move on the board would be to find some shelter on the road, providing I should be fortunate enough to come upon a house—rather a scarce commodity in that section. It was full dark when I realized my wishes, and the realization came in this wise:

I noticed a spot that looked like an attempt at the clearing, but not a sign of a house. By the roadside, in front of this clearing, a post was erected, and about ten feet above the ground a sign decorated it. This sign, which allowed the hand of the domestic artist, read:

TAVERN.
Accomodatio for Man and Hoss.
Jo. SMALL.

Then I knew that I must be somewhere in the neighborhood of a "hotel," but I could see no light, and nothing to make me believe that human life was within a hundred miles, save and except the occasional sound of a violin playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me." there was nothing for it but to enter upon a plan of discovery by making myself known. To do this I shouted, "Hel-l-o-o!" and waited for a response. No answer. Once more, "Hel-l-o-o!" The music ceased and I waited. Presently again, "Hel-l-o-o!" At this juncture I was aware of a tall, brawny, unwashed, uncombed individual, certainly not less than six feet four, leisurely looking through a bit of brush at me, as though I had been engaged to gallop for his amusement and he had paid in advance. In his mouth was a short corncob pipe, his head was hatless, his body coatless, but still the ruin seemed to trouble him not. As soon as our eyes met he spoke:

"Wal, stranger, what is the matter?"

"Can I stay here to-night, and get any place to put my horse?"

"Kalkilate ye kin."

There was no need to wait for further invitation, for Mr. Jo Small, as I supposed the gentleman to be, turned his back and walked away; therefore, if I wished to find his hospitable mansion I must alight, and lead my horse through the bush after his retreating form. This I did without loss of time, and found myself, in two minutes, in front of a capacious log and shingle shanty, fairly in the deepest brush, and from the inside of which a cheerful light streamed forth. In two minutes more I had made a temporary stabling of my horse in an adjoining shed and entered the cabin, to find a party of over twenty of the roughest customers it had ever been my lot to see gathered there; one of whom, sitting on an upturned barrel, was just giving a few preliminary touches towards recommencing his music.

I saluted the party with "Good evening, gentlemen!" and got one or two grunts in response; and then made my way directly to the fire, pulling off my outward coat and making ready for a drying. I saw at a glance that my coming had cast a shadow over the festivities, but I thought the better way would be to take no notice of the fact. The cabin was one room, one end of which, as I saw by the straw and the blankets, served for bed; while several planks, arranged upon barrels, and spread with tin cups and bottles, with one great stone jug, answered for the bar.

I had scarce noticed all this when a small giant, the very counterpart of the landlord, stepped out from the group, and giving me a slap upon the back sufficient to knock life out of an ordinary man, said:

"Come, stranger, take a drink!"

I declined, quietly, merely saying that I did not wish to drink, and the gentleman retired into the group, but only to return instanter.

"You'd better drink, stranger; the boys kalkilate on yer drinkin."

I didn't like the style of this invitation, it sounded too much like a threat, and I told him abruptly that I would not drink.

"The boys kalkilate on it, stranger. Come now, don't put on any airs—take a drink!"

"I told you, sir, that I wouldn't drink. I won't drink! Isn't that enough?"

"See here, stranger, my name's Chris Alison. When I'm to hum I live down to Coon Bend. I ain't no fool, stranger; but cuss me if you karn't drink you must dance, and if you karn't dance you must fight."

"Well," said I, springing to my feet, looking him straight in the eye, "I won't drink, and I won't dance. Now then you can do the next best thing."

"Then, by gum, stranger, I'll do that. My name's Chris Alison; an' I kin whip anything of my weight in Illinois State. I an't a'going to be put down by any cuss comin' around with store clothes on. See here, stranger, thar's the whiskey an' here's little talkin' Molly; now if ye don't drink in just one minute thar'll be a dead sucker around yar pretty soon."

I saw at a glance that I had a desperate ruffian to deal with, who stood presenting an old fashioned holster pistol at my head, and who would have made as little of blowing my brains about the cabin as he would of drinking a glass of whiskey. I knew I must change my tactics or lose my life, as I was totally unarmed. It was in this vein that I instantly dropped the defensive, and said:

"Well, then, sir, if I've got to make my choice between drinking and death, I'll drink, if you are cowardly enough to force an unarmed man, do it." And I advanced towards the bar, accompanied by Chris Alison, and poured out a tumbler of whiskey. I saw in a moment that my defiant manner had its effect on the man, and that when I poured my tumbler liberally full the respect was heightened. The crowd came slowly to the bar, much as though they were not inclined to endorse the action of my master for the moment, and as slowly filled their glasses. At this moment Mr. Chris Alison, with a smirk of satisfaction, as though he had the entire game in his hand, laid his pistol on the bar to fill his glass. I did not wait for a second glance, but as quick as lightning grasped the weapon, and in an instant had the muzzle pointing straight for its owner's head. There was a little spasmodic laugh broke out of his throat as he saw himself in my power, and, with something like a choke, he got out:

"Hellloo! stranger, what's the muss? what are you gwine to do?"

"I'm going to blow your head off," was my response, "unless you do just as I say."

"Oh, git out!" said Mr. Chris Alison, in a coaxing tone, "you're funning."

"Now, then, Mr. Chris Alison," I said, looking him straight in the eye, "I've got a few words to say to you; you look smart enough to understand 'em. I came here a quiet, civil man, wet, tired and hungry. I wasn't disposed to trouble any gentleman in this house, and I don't think any one but you were disposed to trouble me. Because you were armed, you chose to use your arms to force me to drink against my will. Now I'm armed: by the same rule I want you to dance. Come, strike in; play away, music. I'll give you just half a minute."

"Dass yā!" said Alison, in a whining tone, "I can't dance."

"Dance!" I said; "the next time I tell you I'll shoot."

The great lout raised one foot after the other like a bear walking on hot plates,

"Faster!" I shouted, and faster he went, while his companions broke out into a shout of delight.

"Faster!" I roared, "or you're a dead man," and the fellow threw his limbs about until the perspiration started out upon his face. For five minutes I kept him in motion, amid the laughter of every one, including the landlord, and then, lowering the pistol, and presenting the butt to him with a smile, I said:

"Now, Mr. Alison, I'll drink with you willingly, and of my own accord. Come gentlemen, take hold."

The gentleman from Coon Bend took his pistol much as though he was handling a hot potato, and slipping it into his capacious pocket, advanced to the bar and seized his whisky, which he emptied at a gulp, and then turning to me with an admiring glance, said deliberately:

"Wal, stranger, you air the dod rottedest and derndest feller that ever I did see with store clothes on. If you'll just come up and spend a week at Coon Bend I kalkilate you won't be sorry."

That night at an Illinois "hotel" was a gay time. All my old stories came into play, and I was a popular man, so popular that I am convinced that if I had wished to run for Congress out of that district the thing could have been done with but a single word on my part. Whisky, corn dodger and straw, board for my horse, and nothing to pay in the morning.

LINCOLN, THE TYRANT.—The Warsaw New Yorker thus burlesques the Copperhead statement that the President is about to declare his Administration perpetual: "My hies that's nothing. It is reported that Mr. Lincoln not only intends to be Emperor for the next 200 years, but that he will issue a decree that all babies under fifteen years of age shall be drowned, so that his youngest will have no competitor for the next Presidency! He will also soon set Washington on fire, and play on a jewsharp from Arlington Heights, that he may know how Nero felt when he was fiddling over burning Rome. It is also reported that he will soon order a draft of one young and handsome girl from every household in the land, and organize a harem a la Turk. The rye crop of the entire West will be seized to make whisky for this despot. Mrs. Lincoln is to wear bells on her toes, and to have a Copperhead brought in on a platter at evening for entertainment, when she dances before the Cabinet. Domestic peace is the plea for these projects.

A HAPPY WOMAN.—Is she not the very sparkle and sunshine of life? A woman who is happy because she can't help it, whose smiles even the coldest sprinkle of misfortune cannot dampen? Men make a terrible mistake when they marry for beauty, for talent or style. The sweetest wives are those who possess the magic secret of being contented under any circumstances. Rich or poor, high or low, it makes no difference, the bright little fountain of joy bubbles up just as musically in their hearts. Do they live in a log cabin, the fire that leaps up on its humble hearth becomes brighter than the splendid gilded chandeliers in Aladdin's palace. When is the stream of life so dark and inauspicious that the sunshine of a happy face falling on the turbid tide would not awaken an answering gleam; why, these joyous tempered people don't know half the good they do.

A woman in New Orleans was charged with being drunk and abusive, and having no visible means of support. When she was told the latter part of the charge, she raised her dress, exposing her ankles, and said: "What do you call them?"

A correspondent of a country paper, referring to a suggestion made by the editor, that the Supervisors afford relief to men with families unable to raise $300, asks: "Are not men with $300 unable to raise families, also objects of commiseration?"

To the Public.

I WOULD HEREBY CALL THE ATTENTION of the public to this fact, that on the first of May, 1864, they will be called upon by the United States Assessors, to make statement of income for the year 1863; and as the year 1863 is just ended, it would be well for every one to make up their accounts for said year, while every thing is fresh in their memory, and be ready to make statement when called upon by the Assessor.

Under the ruling of the Commissioner of Internal revenue, persons can only deduct expenses for repairs, etc., from the amount received from the same property on which such expenditure have been made. For instance—a person receives $500 for rents, he can use of that amount all that is necessary to repair such property, from which rents were derived; the same rule applies to steamboats, sawmills, and other like property; but all monies derived from interest on notes, Bonds, Mortgages, and from dividends, must be returned as income, although a portion or the whole has been expended in repairing buildings, steamboats, etc.

If persons will prepare their accounts and statements showing amounts received and the source from whence derived, amount expended, and for what purpose, then with the forms and blanks which will be furnished them by the Assessor, a correct return can be made.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness.

BRIDGEFIELD, MASS.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say that your Cherry Pectoral is the best remedy I have ever used in my family for Hoarseness, Influenza, and all Throat complaints. As a symptom of a Cold, its prompt use in my practice has saved me many a day's work. For the last ten years I have known no medicine of equal virtues for the cure of Throat complaints.

ELIJAH PARKER, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., Cashier of the Bank of Commerce, New York, writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself, and in my family for years, and believe it the best remedy for Coughs, Colds, and Throat diseases ever known. With a bad cold I am sure that a single bottle of your PECTORAL will do more than a dozen bottles of any other medicine."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis.

BROTHER AYER: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for Croup, Whooping Cough, and all diseases of the throat and chest. Its effects in the cases of our children have been truly wonderful. Nothing else will so promptly relieve the little sufferers. We know that it has saved the lives of many children in this village, and we believe it will do the same for the people of every village in the land.

REV. A. MORSE, Pastor of Baptist Church, Bridgefield, Conn.

AMOS LEE, Esq., Editor of the Danbury (Conn.) Recorder, writes: "I had a tedious, hard cough, which, after trying many medicines, and the advice of several physicians, yielded promptly to your CHERRY PECTORAL. I am satisfied that it has saved me from a severe illness, if not from the grave, and shall always keep it in my house, as I have done for the past three years."

Asthma or Phthisic.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL has cured me of the Asthma, from which I suffered for many years. I was confined to my bed, and so low that my life was despaired of. I was induced to try your PECTORAL, and from the first dose I experienced relief. I continued its use for a few weeks, and am entirely cured. Publish this, that others may know where to find a remedy.

REV. ELIJAH SHAW, Wilbraham, Mass.

A. A. RAMSEY, Esq., Editor of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate, Sept. 6, 1855: "Dr. AYER: Sir—I have been afflicted, for more than a year, with a severe cough, which nothing could relieve, until I was induced to try your CHERRY PECTORAL. I have taken but three bottles of it, and am entirely cured. I am confident that it has saved me from the consumption of the grave."

We might add volumes more of the most unquestionable proof of the virtues of this remedy, but the public are familiar with its effects, and we refer them to their own neighborhoods for further evidence of its unparalleled virtues.

Probably no other medicine is so universally known, or has won so many and such permanent cures. Its reputation is now established as the best remedy that can be found for the relief and cure of all Pulmonary complaints.
